Fire and Casualty Men Hear
Annual Address of President Goodwyn.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NORFOLK, VA., Aug. 17.—The annual convention of the Fire and Casualty Insurance Agents in convention at the Monticello Hotel today, turned their attention to a number of matters of vital importance to their work, including the question of meeting mutual competition and the growing number of automobile thefts.

The annual address of Colonel E. E. Goodwyn, president, recommended to the agents that they go on record as favoring proper methods by the State and national organizations to spread correct information as to the standing of stock companies in their competition with mutuals.

Colonel Goodwyn approved the suggestion that the various associations follow the practice of sending representatives to trade conventions of all sorts to address business men on the value and service of the stock companies. Mutual companies have been sending representatives to trade meetings right along, he asserted, and action by the stock companies will help to offset the work they have done.

This recommendation together with one on bank agencies, which Colonel Goodwyn heartily approved, constituted the outstanding feature of his address at the opening of the gathering.

He approved action to combat the practice of allowing banks to sell insurance, but asserted that the association wished to allow banks that were now in the business and that had membership in the association to retain their connection.

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID VIRGINIA'S HEROIC NEAR EAST WORKER

Medal Presented Miss Nancy Benson by National Trustees at Meeting "Back Home" in Gloucester—Returns to Constantinople Soon to Become Bride.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GLOUCESTER COURTHOUSE, Aug. 17.—At a gathering of three-score of the best ladies of the county this week in the historic old Long Bridge building, now the Woman's Club, Virginia's heroic little Near East worker, Miss Nancy Benson, back from three years of service abroad, was presented with a beautiful bronze medal from the national trustees of Near East Relief. Judge James L. Taliaferro, representing General John R. Saunders, Attorney-General, H. at his home with an injured foot, made the presentation speech.

Women from every section of the county were present, coming for miles around to the ceremony in the ancient old establishment, which is still kept out with double doors, as it is said to have been the Indian arrow, and the ancient Holy Lord binges, made in the shape of an "H" and an "L" to "turn back the witcher."

High Tribute Paid by Speaker.
Tribute to a woman who has risked everything—disease, danger, untold and death itself in ancient Armenia, Turkey, Syria, was touchingly paid by Judge Taliaferro. He said Miss Benson had never flinched in her duties, had always been faithful and in her institution and in her service. He said she had been a great service. Miss Benson was overcome by the touching tribute to her sterling qualities and the kind remarks made by Mrs. H. O. Sanders, president of the club, who also made a short talk in her behalf.

"The Individual Remittance Queen." Miss Benson's exhumed among the people of the Near East, did not speak, but expressed her devotion for the kindness of her countrymen and expressed the hope that their aid would be extended in behalf of the Near East Relief in its Virginia campaign this year.

Miss Benson will stay with her father, Thomas L. Benson, for some time. Then she will visit relatives in the Central States and return to New York, where she will sail for Europe.

To Buy Housekeeping Outfit.
When in New York, Miss Benson will purchase a complete housekeeping outfit, and will be wed to Reese R. Baker on her return to her work at Constantinople.

"It seems strange," she said during the service of tea following the meeting, "but you can't even buy such a little thing as a potato masher in Constantinople."

A letter from State Chairman Oliver J. Sande, expressing his regret at not being present, was read as follows:

"It is with deep personal regret that I must make this apology for not being present at the presentation of this medal and certificate to you. Business of the utmost importance keeps me from presenting this gift of appreciation and gratitude, which the national board of trustees of the Near East Relief have voted you, in person."

Service Touches All Hearts.
Your work in braving the dangers and uncertainties on foreign soil for the salvation of thousands of little children whose very existence has depended on your grit and energy, has endeared you to the hearts of all Virginians who know of your heroic work. The way in which you have ministered mercy unto those in need brings forth the highest praise.

In awarding you this little token of appreciation, the Near East Relief officials are not only trying to show you our gratitude, but behind us, with outstretched hands to you, asking them to finance a minor for whom you have sacrificed so greatly. You have been in personal contact with the horrors which have shocked the world, and you have stood face to face without shrinking, the grave dangers of disease and personal injury unflinchingly, to you has come the actual pain and bitterness of fighting against awful odds.

We in America have shared your triumphs, but you alone know at what actual costs they were attained. "That posterity may know of the splendid heroic work you have done for humanity, this medal is presented—a small thing in remembrance of a great deed well done."

Welcome Her Back Home.
"As State Chairman of the Near East Relief in Virginia, I welcome you back to the garden spot of the world—Virginia. A letter from national headquarters states that you have already signed up for two years more on the field of battle. My prayers will always include a plea for you and the other American workers, who are literally laying down their lives on the altar of humanity."

"I pledge to you and your co-workers on the field that we here in the 'Old Dominion' will continue to support you with our prayers and our money."
